FHA Housing Scandal Leads To Probe of Credit Ratings

In its exposure of FHA housing "scandals" in Florida, the Fort Lauderdale News printed the following story on March 22:

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Ft. Lauderdale News

The search for "poor quality" credit applications in areas with high rates of home foreclosures has reached Broward County, the News learned today as the FHA announced it is rushing in a "task force" to rehabilitate repossessed homes.

One area reportedly under investigator's scrutiny is Collier Estates in Broward County, where numerous FHA-insured homes, abandoned and foreclosed, have been without care for months, and are in a deteriorating state.

Federal investigators want to find out if the owners were qualified when they purchased the houses with FHA backing.

Detectives Invoke Fifth Amendment In Eavesdropping

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Fifth Amendment was invoked by two private detectives and a lawyer questioned Monday about electronic eavesdropping in the hotel suite of a San Francisco lawyer.

They showed up, under court order, to give depositions—statements under oath—in the offices of Paul R. Connolly Jr., attorney for Malcolm T. Duncan, San Francisco lawyer representing El Paso Natural Gas Co. in a big case before the Federal Power Commission.

Connolly said later the three provided little more than their names and addresses. They are: John J. Frank, a lawyer and former FBI agent; Oliver W. Angelone, private detective and also a former FBI agent; and John W. Leon, a private detective and owner of an electronic sales firm.

The Fifth Amendment protects witnesses against possible self-incrimination.

Connolly said the three declined to say whether they worked for anyone with interests in the

County Will Get Quarter Million Lease Royalties

El Paso County will receive $232,100 in royalties on federal mineral leases in Colorado, according to State Treasurer Tim Armstrong.

The money is part of a total $3,167,033 divided among the state's 63 counties on the basis of the number of pupils who attended classes during 1960-61, Armstrong said.

Three counties received more money than El Paso. Denver received the largest share, $693,552; Arapahoe, $280,267; and Jefferson, $267,089.

Other large counties included Adams, $225,662; Pueblo, $215,215; Boulder, $136,913; and Weld, $133,785.

50,000 Prisoners Crowded Into Jails of Castro Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports from Cuba indicated today that the Castro regime has 50,000 political prisoners crowded into Cuban jails.

This was one of the considerations listed by U.S. officials in discussions by Washington authorities from President Kennedy's administration with Cuban officials.

A 24-year-old Colorado National Guard soldier was critically injured at 2:35 a.m. today when his car crashed into the rear of a semi-trailer truck.

The accident occurred on U.S. Highway 85-87, two and a half miles north of the El Paso County line, according to a report from the Denver office of the State Patrol.

The soldier was identified as Spec. 5 Billy R. Burris, of the 947th Medical Clearing Division of Denver. Burris lives at 266 S. Yates St., Denver, and is married.

He was brought to the Ft. Carson Army Hospital after the accident where medical authorities listed his injuries as multiple compound fractures of the face, nasal and eye socket bones, hemorrhage of both eyes, a possible ruptured left eyeball, abdominal and kidney injuries, right lung damage and multiple contusions and abrasions, and a basal skull fracture.

He was transported to Fitzsimons General Hospital in Denver by helicopter lift at 8 a.m. today after physicians had performed a tracheotomy.

Patrol authorities said that the Burris car plunged into the rear of the truck at full speed, indicating that he possibly fell asleep at the wheel.

Burris has been attached to the medical division since March of 1957 and this is his first active duty. Ft. Carson officials said.

Stormy Colorado Session of PTA Opens in Denver

DENVER (AP)—The Colorado Congress of Parents and Teachers opened what promised to be a stormy three-day convention today in Denver.

A group of so-called PTA rebels was expected to try to oppose the present state association leadership, mainly on the issue of federal aid to education.

The group was expected to attempt to substitute its own ballot on federal aid to education for a version composed by the state PTA.

About 1,500 delegates were scheduled to vote Wednesday on the federal aid issue, culminating five months of often stormy debates on the matter.

Some discussion has already begun over the wording of ballots on the federal aid questions. One ballot item begins with:

"The free public school system should be maintained and strengthened. Education requires action at all levels of government: local, state and national."

A "no" vote, which would oppose federal support to the schools, would also put the voter on record against maintaining and strengthening public schools. Another ballot item says:

"Education beyond high school should be encouraged, and adequate support provided."

A "yes" vote would permit the state and national PTA lobbies to work for laws going far beyond the intent of a voting delegate, critics said.

Faced with a similar problem at a convention last month, Montana delegates got the entire ballot thrown out.

Damage to the 1957 model car was listed at $150.

He will become director of military assistance, Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense, (International Security Affairs) Washington, D. C.

Wood will succeed Gen. William B. Palmer.

Maj. Gen. William W. Dick, Jr., was nominated for Lieutenant General and will succeed Gen. Wood. Dick is presently commanding general of the Third Infantry Division in Europe.

Damage to the 1957 model car was listed at $150.

Beating Suspect Is Charged With Assault, Battery

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Britain gave the Soviet Union an apparently final warning today that unless there is agreement on an enforceable nuclear test ban the new U.S. test series scheduled to start late this month will have to go forward.

In a joint statement released at the White House, the two governments called on the Soviets to reconsider their position on the inspection issue and to accept the principle of international verification.

"If they will do this," the statement said, "there is still time to reach agreement."

The declaration then continued: "But if there is no change in the present Soviet position, the governments of United States and the United Kingdom must conclude that their efforts to obtain a workable treaty to ban nuclear tests are not now successful, and the test series scheduled for the latter part of this month will have to go forward."

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson said they were "deeply disappointed" that the declaration was necessary.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Army doctors have sent a shudder through the U.S. armed forces by suggesting that the average soldier eats too much rich food and should be put on a diet.

The Army said today that these findings are under review. But there was a horrible feeling that the doctors had armed themselves with facts and figures and were likely to prevail.

Almost as bad as the change in the menu for some of the GI's was the prospect of learning the difference between saturated and polyunsaturated fats. The former predominate in the present chow, but the latter would get a vigorous nod of approval in the new diet.

"This is a reduction in foods such as whole milk, cream, butter, hard cheeses, beef, pork, salad shortening and chocolate, which are high in saturated fats," the doctors explained.

In contrast, they continued, "chicken, turkey and other fowl, fish and shellfish, cottage cheese, cereals, fruits, nuts, and natural vegetable oils are all relatively high in polyunsaturated fatty acids and are therefore recommended."

Not too convincingly, the doctors added that "this does not represent a radical change in the American diet."

"Many of the changes are substitutions: certain margarines for butter, skim milk for whole milk, vegetable oils for salad shortenings, sponge and angel food cake for richer pastries, more fish and fowl and less beef and pork," they said.

The findings were turned in by Col. Weldon J. Walker, chief of the cardiology service at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington, and Lt. Col. Jacques A. Sherman Jr., chief of the medical research branch. They were published in the last issue of "Military Medicine," official journal of the Association of Military Surgeons.

The two doctors began by demolishing the idea that heart attacks affect only senior officers about to retire. They said the average age of men dying of heart trouble in the Army is 43. Moreover, they said, 77 per cent of the 22-year-olds who were killed in Korea had some of the symptoms of atherosclerosis, which could lead to a heart attack.

They emphasized that this is a major problem in the Army. In 1958, the last year for which complete figures were available, there were 959 hospital admissions, 320 medical discharges, 166 deaths, and 90,915 lost man-days due to atherosclerosis.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four optimistic Cuban exile emissaries flew to Havana today, hoping to bargain with Fidel Castro for the ransom of 1,179 war prisoners.

They said they hoped to interest the prime minister in a plan to swap the captives for merchandise.

"We have $26 million in cash and pledges with $2 million more in sight," reported Enrique Llaça, treasurer of the Cuban Families Committee for Reparation of War Prisoners.

Llaça and his three companions hoped to talk Castro into reducing the total $62 million placed on the prisoners.

"But we can also raise more money," he said.

Also in the exile delegation were Alvaro Sanchez Jr., chairman; Mrs. Virginia Betancourt de Rodriguez and Ernesto Freyre.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A shipwrecked party of skin divers is home from Cuba with tales in agreeable contrast to those told by some Americans falling into the hands of Fidel Castro's men.

The seven men—treasure hunters—said Castro put them up at a swank hotel and treated them as honored guests. Cuban authorities also offered to try salvaging the Americans' equipment which went down with their 42-foot motorboat near a reef off Baracoa, eastern Cuba.

"I had butterflies in my stomach about landing on Cuban soil," said Fred Nielsen Jr., 33, when he and his companions flew to Miami from Havana Monday.

The shipwrecked party's first contact with revolutionary Cuba was not reassuring. They were arrested as soon as they swam ashore by soldiers who thought they might be anti-Castro invaders.

As soon as they convinced the Cubans they were bona-fide mariners in distress they were welcomed, the skin divers said.

"We were shipwrecked sailors and our treatment was fair," they said.

Sophia Loren, Maximilian Schell Given Top Oscars

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sophia Loren, stern-faced Maximilian Schell and splashy "West Side Story" go into the records as top winners of the 34th annual Academy Awards. But a sensational bit of gate-crashing stole the show.

Italy's Miss Loren is best actress. Vienna's Schell is best actor. Hollywood's "West Side Story" is best picture, winner of a near-record 10 Oscars. New York's Stan Berman retains his title as "world champion gate crasher."

Berman, 35, a cabbie who has made a career out of penetrating the impenetrable, stalked onto the stage in mid-tearful at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, presented astonished emcee Bob Hope with an ersatz Oscar, and stalked off—leaving the film famous and a nation of onlookers flabbergasted.

The handsome Schell won for his role as the defender of Nazi Germany in "Judgment at Nuremberg."

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood's annual big moment—its Motion Picture Academy Awards show—meandered along for more than two hours Monday night and into this morning on ABC before the television audience finally learned the names of its best picture, best actor, best actress and best supporting players.

There were many other awards of Oscar statuettes, too, of mild interest to the television audience. But those were the five that kept the yawning public up through endless "I want to express my gratitude to—" speeches. But if you like to look at stars, there were a lot of them to see, and Bob Hope managed to keep things moving as a bright master of ceremonies to the bitter end.

"West Side Story" picked up so many awards that it almost became monotonous. I wouldn't miss watching this annual show, but each year I wonder why Hollywood can't manage to honor itself with a shorter, more interesting program—and also why a great industry like motion pictures must have its big event of the year sponsored, this year by a manufacturer of home permanent waves and a tooth paste.

Edie Adams' half-hour musical special that preceded it on ABC was a bright and sparkling little program. This viewer even wished it could go on longer, a reaction rare in these days of hour-long specials which often seem padded to fill the time.

Miss Adams sang well and in a wide range of moods. Dick Shawn was amusing in a comedy bit and Andre Previn played the piano brilliantly. It was very nice, and one hopes she'll do this sort of thing often.

100 Fire Alarms During March Set New Record

The Colorado Springs fire department answered a record 100 alarms during March, according to Fire Chief F. H. Lausch. This exceeded the old record of 96 alarms in January of this year. Previous highs were in the 80s. All the 100 alarms were not fires, however, since 32 were for rescues and rescue. There were 16 false alarms.

The fire department received 28 rescuer calls last month, some of which came in on the alarm system and others were called in. Four rescues were made.

The department also set another new high last month in training activity. Lausch said 1,867 man hours were spent during March on the study of mathematics, hydraulics, and first aid.

The entire fire-fighting personnel of the department has had advanced training in first aid. The department has four qualified instructors.

MY ANSWER

by Billy Graham

© 1962 by Chicago Tribune
N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: When Jesus rose from the dead, was it a literal bodily resurrection? —E.R.

ANSWER: Yes. Otherwise, there was no resurrection at all. Christ foretold His bodily resurrection in John 2:18-22. These words are either true or false. If they are false, then He either knowingly or ignorantly told a falsehood, and in either case, He could not be our Saviour. Make no mistake in supposing the doctrine of the resurrection of Christ to be unimportant. It is a vital part of our faith, and without it there is no faith worth mentioning.

See how Paul deals with it as a basic doctrine in 1 Corinthians 15. He said, "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain and your faith is also vain. Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God."

Driver Guilty Of Taking Right of Way

Haruko Trickey, 38, of 1525 S. Nevada Ave., was found guilty of taking the right of way from a pedestrian during a Municipal Court trial Monday that hinged on the question of whether or not the pedestrian was in the crosswalk at the time she was struck.

Mrs. Trickey was fined $50 by Municipal Judge Allan Asher who also informed her that he would notify the Motor Vehicle Department to give her a new driving examination.

Leo Rector, the defendant's attorney, asked for a 10-day stay of execution for the purpose of an appeal, which was granted by Judge Asher.

Police officer Emmett Butler testified that the accident occurred March 7 in the 100 block of North Nevada Avenue.

Mrs. Trickey was traveling west on Bijou Street at 4 p.m. and was in the process of making a left hand turn onto Nevada Avenue when she struck the pedestrian traveling east on Nevada Avenue.

Butler said there was no evidence at the scene to indicate that the pedestrian was struck while she was in the crosswalk. He testified that there was evidence to indicate that an object was dragged from a point 21 feet south of the south curb of Bijou Street to a point 69 feet south of the south curb of Bijou Street.

Another witness corroborated Butler's testimony to the effect that the pedestrian, whose name was not mentioned in the trial, was struck near the crosswalk and dragged beneath the Trickey car. He testified that he had backed the car from the woman's body after the accident. He could not, however, state definitely to the court that the pedestrian was in the crosswalk when she was struck.

The third witness for the people told Judge Asher that he saw the pedestrian in the crosswalk a few seconds before she was struck. He testified under cross examination, however, that he wears glasses and views objects separately out of his two eyes.

Mrs. Trickey told the court that the signal light was green for her to make the left turn, and she did not see the pedestrian either before or after the accident until her car was backed from the woman's body.

The pedestrian suffered a fractured leg and bruises and abrasions in the accident.

Mrs. Trickey said she did not feel the impact of the collision and did not stop her car until someone yelled at her.

Asher said that the evidence convinced him that the pedestrian was either in the crosswalk or near enough to it to be afforded the protection offered by the city ordinance that covers such cases.

Detectives Invoke Fifth Amendment In Eavesdropping

(Continued From Page One) power commission case. They also declined to say, he said, whether they were in the Mayflower Hotel between March 25 and April 4, or whether they were hired for electronic eavesdropping.

Dungan obtained a court order April 4 against electronic eavesdropping after reporting he found an FM radio transmitter attached to the bottom of a coffee table in his Mayflower Hotel suite. Later investigation disclosed, he said, a receiving device and tape recorder in another room on the same floor.

In the power commission case El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Colorado Interstate Gas Co. seek a certificate for a natural gas pipeline that would extend from Wyoming to Southern California.

Water Trail Leads to Hit, Run Driver

Police followed a water trail from the scene of a hit-and-run accident to the home of Robert William Young, 43, of 1501 N. Franklin St., early this morning, and then charged Young with reckless and careless driving.

Authorities said the accident occurred at 1:30 a.m. in the 60 block of N. Washack Ave., when the Young car struck a parked vehicle in the rear and then left the scene.

Young told police that he had been drinking in a local bar and after the accident, drove home because he thought it was the smart thing to do.

Damage to the parked car was listed at between $50 and $150 and between $250 to $500 to the Young Vehicle.

The voluptuous brunette Miss Loren won her Oscar in absentia for playing the earthy war heroine in the Italian production, "Two Women"—climaxing a ragtime tale that began on the streets of Rome. Hers is the first Oscar to a role played in a language other than English.

It was the first time since 1939, when Britishers Vivien Leigh and Robert Donat triumphed, that two foreigners have come out on top. "West Side Story," a musical version of "Romeo and Juliet" set among the juvenile street gangs of New York, felt just one Oscar short of equaling the record of 11 set by "Ben-Hur" in 1959. Its sweep included support awards for George Chakiris and Rita Moreno, costume design, film editing, scoring of a musical, sound, color cinematography, art and set decoration.

The show was plodding dully along, seeming especially tame after last year's dramatic win by Elizabeth Taylor—until Berman strode on stage in the midst of a presentation by Vince Edwards, television's Dr. Ben Casey, and Shelley Winters.

Berman grabbed a pint-sized Oscar and held it up and said, "This is Bob Hope's Oscar for 'The Big Broadcast of 1938.' To the world's greatest comedian from the world's greatest gate crasher."

Berman, who had his picture taken in the box with President Kennedy and his family at the inaugural gala, said stage crashing is a pushover.

"All you need is a tuxedo and the appearance of looking as if you belong," he said.

Miss Loren didn't come for the awards, saying she was "too tired and too scared I might lose."

Schell flew in over the weekend from Germany. Chakiris came in from Hawaii and Miss Moreno spent 18 hours on a plane flying from a movie location in the Philippines.

Travel Show Exceeding Expectations

John Hadix, assistant Chamber of Commerce manager, reported Monday that Will Jurgens, Chamber of Commerce convention director, has reported from Dallas, Tex., that the travel show, now in progress in that city, is exceeding expectation so far.

Jurgens announced that the show set a new record for customer attendance over the weekend, and that to date he has been busier than on the corresponding days he spent at the Chicago travel show.

The Dallas Sport and Travel Show opened Saturday and will run through Sunday of this week.

The Colorado Springs region booth at the show contains large colored murals and movies depicting the scenic attractions of the Pikes Peak Region. In addition, literature of the region is distributed to those desiring more information about Colorado Springs as a potential vacation site.

Jurgens and his wife are in charge of the booth at the Texas show.

50,000 Prisoners Are Crowded Into Cuba Jails

(Continued From Page One) though from a foreign policy viewpoint Washington wants to cut down on Castro's foreign influence, the U.S. government has no objection to voluntary actions by persons seeking on their own release of some or all of the captives.

The government has interposed no barrier to the proposed trip to Havana today by a delegation of representatives of a committee of relatives of the invasion prisoners. They were unable to see Castro. The group hopes to negotiate with him.

In preliminary checking, American authorities also have uncovered no legal impediment to which would begin negotiations ending money to Cuba, even for freedom of the prisoners.

U.S., Britain Give Reds Final Word on A-Tests

(Continued From Page One) Prime Minister Harold Macmillan chose the joint statement technique for stating their position, in preference to forwarding another direct appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Some U.S. officials said the time is considered too late for the personal communication method.

The statement was not presented as a Kennedy-Macmillan declaration but as one from the two governments.

The 600-word statement reviewed the latest round of U.S.-British negotiations with Russia on a treaty to ban further testing of nuclear weapons.

The negotiations began at Geneva a month ago when Secretary of State Dean Rusk met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the opening of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

A few days before the conference opened Kennedy had announced that unless a dependable ban on testing could be negotiated before late April the United States would begin conducting tests in the atmosphere over the central Pacific.

Today's declaration said that Gromyko—as well as other Soviet leaders—had consistently rejected the principle of international inspection as a means for policing a test ban. In the view of the Western powers a treaty without adequate verification to guarantee against cheating would be undependable. Therefore, the statement argued, the whole issue turns on Russia's rejection of the principle of objective international verification.

The declaration obviously was designed to place upon the Soviet government the responsibility for the resumption of the nuclear arms development race.

The Soviets last September ended a three-year moratorium on weapons testing with a series of about 50 atmospheric explosions. Kennedy reported later that they had made gains in the improvement of nuclear weapons.

Without a reliable prohibition on further testing, Kennedy said, the United States would also have to conduct atmospheric tests in addition to the small underground explosions it began last fall.

The U.S.-British statement said the heart of the problem now is the lack of confidence.

Car Hits House; Leaves Scene Of Accident

Police were searching this morning for a hit-and-run car that struck two mailboxes and the side of a house in the 2900 block of North Chestnut Street Monday morning.

Authorities said that evidence left at the scene indicated the car had made a left turn from Fillmore Street and struck a mailbox and a block wall at the residence located at 2930 N. Chestnut St. before leaving the scene.

The house at 2930 N. Chestnut Street belongs to Wayne Banks, 1338 Oswego St., and the other residence belongs to Vada Henry, 601 W. Pikes Peak Ave.

The amount of damage at both residences was listed as slight, according to the police report.

Geiger Writing History of Higher Education in Area

A Colorado College professor, who says many of the western plains and mountain states have more colleges than they can support, is collecting materials for writing the first complete history of higher education in the Rocky Mountains and Great Plains.

He is Dr. Louis G. Geiger, chairman of the history department at the independent college of arts and sciences. A recognized authority in the field, Prof. Geiger is the author of numerous histories including "University of the Northern Plains."

"Although number of general histories of higher education in America have been published over the years, none makes any claim to being the final word on the subject," he said.

Prof. Geiger said a major obstacle to such work appears to be the lack of thorough, analytical histories of individual institutions or of higher education in state and regional areas.

"No region has been more neglected in the published studies of higher education than the plains and mountain states," he said.

The Colorado College history professor plans to trace the development of higher education in this region from the 1860's down to the present day. The project is expected to be an eight-to-10 year undertaking.

It is financed through a Colorado College Public Affairs Research Grant. Funds for the grant were made available by the Ford Foundation.

During the first phase of the study Prof. Geiger will look into higher education in Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and Idaho. Later, the project will call for studying higher education in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, the Dakotas, Kansas, Nebraska, and possibly Texas.

He said the region has definite characteristics such as "sparse population, recent settlement, and low rainfall."

"Nearly all of the colleges are tax-supported," Professor Geiger said. "Several of the states appear to have more colleges than they can support properly, and nearly all of the colleges and universities were founded in the last decade of the 19th century."

This region offers an unparalleled opportunity to study public higher education in its purest form, in an area large and isolated enough to have developed some distinct regional patterns and where sectarian and philanthropic influences have been at a minimum," he continued.

Prof. Geiger, who had his introduction to professional writing as a historian with the Fifth Army during World War II, is the author of three books: "From the Appalachians to the Alps," "Joseph W. Folk of Missouri," and "University of the Northern Plains."

Formerly a professor of history at the University of North Dakota, he earned his Ph.D. at the University of Missouri. He has been at Colorado College since 1960.

Professor Geiger spent the 1954-55 academic year as a Fulbright Lecturer in American Civilization at the University of Helsinki in Finland.

He said the right door glass was broken.

Galen Robbins, 720 E. 4th St., reported to police that a transistor radio, a gearshift knob and a map light were stolen from his car while the vehicle was parked at the College Chevrolet Service Station, 705 N. Nevada Ave., between the hours of 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Monday.

Robbins listed the value of the stolen articles at $125.

Police said the right door glass was broken.

Baracosa is on the north coast of Cuba, more than 50 miles from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay. The skin divers' motor boat, Pisces, had been cruising through bad weather toward the Windward Passage en route to Jamaica.

The men's return to the United States was handled through the Swiss Embassy, which acts as intermediary between the United States and Cuba since diplomatic relations between the two countries were severed.

FHA Housing Scandal Leads to Credit Probe

In many cases, vandals stripped the homes of appliances, interiors were defaced, littered yards were overgrown with weeds, windows were broken and several of the homes were in need of major structural repairs.

Rep Paul G. Rogers of the Sixth Congressional District, embracing several of the counties afflicted with the FHA housing blight huddled with VA and FHA officials earlier this week.

Rogers asked for a report on the problem.

It was learned FHA and VA officials said the Collier Estates subdivision "is out of our hands at the present time." That was reliably reported to mean federal investigators are searching the FHA applications approved in the troubled subdivision.

Federal Housing Administration rules require down payments on FHA-insured home loans.

You can skirt this regulation. The FHA says it's legal.

Here's how it works: You want a $13,500 home. But you don't have the 3 per cent cash down payment, or $405.

You arrange with the builder or real estate salesman to move in anyway. You make "rent payments." When the total is enough for the down payment, you sign the purchase contract, providing you meet other FHA requirements for credit rating and income.

Billy Wilcox, FHA regional director, said there is nothing illegal about the "painless" down payment method.

Hard-pressed builders, with recession homes, welcomed cashless buyers with open arms.

Builders moved to Florida in droves to take advantage of the FHA's little-known 1 per cent down payment, 40-year mortgage.

With the ease of renting an apartment, buyers plunked down $120 on a $12,000 home.

When hard times came, the homeowners who lost jobs simply packed up and left, leaving behind rundown homes.

If the home is not too badly scarred and a cashless buyer comes along, he moves in on the down payment installment plan.

With no equity in the home, the owner cares little about upkeep or making necessary repairs. The house continues to deteriorate.

Caught in a tightened economy the homeowner seeks his job. He leaves town, maybe even to another state. The home by this time is a shambles.

The mortgage lender forecloses, gets his money from the FHA, and the wrecked homes go to the federal agency.

Abandoned homes constitute a considerable number of the 400 in Broward and 700 in Dade, turned back to the FHA.

Of 1,292 repossessed FHA homes in Dade, Broward, Palm Beach, Lee, Collier, Charlotte and Martin Counties, only 83 are in condition to sell, the agency reported.

Wilcox does not feel the giant home reconstruction program facing the FHA was caused mainly by folks who made down payments the "painless" way.

"They are isolated cases," said Wilcox. "He added builders are pretty sure the prospective buyers can qualify before they move into the homes to await closing."

Robert Tharpe, former president of the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America, called the FHA's 40-year mortgage, 1 per cent down payment plan "a welfare fraud."

Saying the original intention of FHA-insured home loans was to sound, Tharpe declared: "Ifers who can produce a signed Congress wants welfare housing sales contract for a home they should set up a welfare agency for that purpose and not burden FHA with it."

Tharpe said the FHA has grown into an unwieldy octopus, with its vast programs of housing for the elderly, nursing homes, urban renewal projects, college housing, community facilities, land acquisition, farm housing and many others.

Ironically, one of the FHA's services, insuring home-improvement loans, is aimed in part at rehabilitating neighborhoods on the down grade.

Neighborhoods are being blighted in some South Florida counties, including Broward, by abandoned and foreclosed FHA-insured homes which have been without care for months on end.

FHA and VA officials are attempting now to put together a giant repair program, but they admit a lack of personnel in their property-management divisions.

FHA brass in Washington are concerned about the backfire of easy-to-get mortgages in South Florida. They term it the worst summer without a lot of work and expense.

Experts are in the field now, counting the number of homes which generally are sized up by the federal government, or any severity of the problem in the FHA district.

Whether the curb on FHA and VA speculative home building will be lifted or extended, depends their own money is required, a survey results, Wilcox said.

Builders were cautioned to go in cautiously but in recession periods the chickens are apt to come home to roost as they last year, Wilcox said. Few took the hint.

One of the reasons may be the in his home which has been built up either thru a reasonable down payment at the time of original purchase or thru sensible mortgage terms isn't apt to just walk away from his home and let the mortgage company foreclose it on him.

"They (builders) have to make the most of it," he said.

a profit or they wouldn't be in business," said Wilcox.

Jack W. Gore, editor and publisher of the Fort Lauderdale News, Fla., in a signed editorial March 22, declares that "in long run building will benefit by curtailment of loans on speculative homes."

He then goes on to say: "While many builders in this area may bewail the recent action curtailing FHA and VA loans on speculative homes, common sense clearly indicates that this is the kind of remedial action that should have been taken sooner than it was."

For many months it has been no secret all throughout this area that hundreds of homeowners who had purchased their homes thru FHA financing were simply picking up and walking out of these homes. They could do so with little loss to themselves for the simple reason they had so little equity in their homes that it was easier to abandon them than to struggle along trying to meet the mortgage payments every month.

Contributing to this trend was the slump in business activity in the construction field. This slump threw many people out of work and with jobs hard to find many of the unemployed left the area for greener pastures and, in the process, simply permitted their homes to be foreclosed.

Most of these foreclosed homes eventually reverted to the FHA. But by the time all the red tape was cleared and the FHA actually got title to the homes several months had elapsed and during this interval the homes had been neglected to the point where they were not only an eyesore to the neighborhood but physical deterioration rendered major repairs necessary to convert the homes back into a salable product.

Unfortunately, too, red tape and voluminous paper work prevented quick repair of these homes once the FHA secured title. In most cases it took months to secure the necessary authority to make repairs and all the time the abandoned homes were falling into an even worse state of neglect.

Eventually, the FHA became loaded with so many of these abandoned homes that something had to be done and done rather quickly to avert a major scandal. Procedures for authorizing repairs on these homes were simplified with the result that the FHA and the VA can now spend up to $2,000 and $1,000 respectively on repairs without the necessity of going to Washington for approval.

Under this program it is expected that these two agencies will be spending up to $10,000 a week in the near future in this immediate area just to repair homes and put them back into salable condition.

Quite obviously, with these government agencies stuck with the responsibility of repairing and maintaining hundreds of low cost homes and faced with the job of reselling these homes in a market already overloaded with such accommodations, it would be silly for them to go on encouraging builders to put up additional homes.

So FHA and VA authorities have taken the logical step of temporarily refusing to approve any more loans for speculative homes. This does not mean that a person desiring to purchase an approved FHA home already built can no longer get FHA or VA financing.

This financing is still available and will continue to be available both to home buyers and to builders.

But speculative builders who have long been accustomed to building homes first and finding buyers afterwards will not be able to get either FHA or VA loans. This new ruling undoubtedly will slow down activity hereabouts in the low cost home building field but we are inclined to agree with government officials that it is a necessary step until such time as the present backlog of low cost homes is absorbed and market conditions justify the construction of additional units.

In the meantime, both the FHA and the VA are apt to take a heavy financial licking trying to dispose of the hundreds of repossessed homes they now have on their hands. Even after necessary repairs are made, a regular inspection and maintenance program will have to be inaugurated and every homeowner knows it is no simple matter to keep a home and landscaping in top shape down here during the summer without a lot of work and expense.

This whole business should furnish a most ample proof that whenever the federal government, or any body else, undertakes a large-scale program designed to produce a home for every man, woman and child, it is bound to fail.

Where there is no equity, however, there is no incentive for trying to maintain mortgage payments and the temptation to just walk out and abandon the home is too great to resist. That's why the FHA and the VA have hundreds of these foreclosed and abandoned homes on their hands right now in shape and resell them, these federal agencies can hardly be blamed for not wanting to finance the construction of even more unsold low cost housing.

In most cases he will make the most of it," he said.

CHARLES TOWNER

Towner Named To Board of Dealer Croup

Charles Towner, prominent Colorado Springs automobile dealer, was elected to the board of directors of the Independent Automobile Dealers Association of Colorado.

The group also elected L. R. Lukavsky, Denver, president; Al Woldt, Denver, vice-president; Lenny Mendelson, Denver, secretary; and Mac Campbell, Denver, treasurer.

Bill Drilling of Denver was appointed automatically board chairman.

Other directors elected were: Pete Clemen, Lakewood; Clyde Jeffers, Denver; George Lamb, Littleton; John Shay and Jay Uley, both of Denver.

This was the first time that an officer had been selected from an area other than Denver Metropolitan area.

The group was celebrating its twenty-first birthday as an association.

The association is dedicated to the protection of the public from unethical sales or advertising practices. They seek to raise the standards of the Used Car Business to the end that the public may be better served.

The office of the Association is 16 West 12th Ave., Denver. Many Colorado Springs dealers are courted as members. And many more are expected to join in the near future.

LUTHERANS BELIEVE...

Good works are necessary.

They are necessary because they express the Christian faith.

How come?

Well, a Christian is a Christ-ian or a Christ follower.

So, the Christian wants to follow in Christ's steps—loving, feeding, healing.

These are good works.

These works reveal the love of God through His people; these works lead other people to Him; these works are a fulfillment of Christ's statement that His believers would do greater works than He did.

Faith—through which alone man is saved—comes first. Then, good works grow out of this faith, since a Christian does good works because he is saved, not in order that he might be saved.

Motivated by Christ's self-sacrifice (depicted by a cross on Calvary's peak) the believer acts (symbolized by a man on either side of cross) carrying the Gospel like a flame across the earth.

A person who has faith in Jesus Christ simply can't help doing good works, in order that Christ might be shared with the world.
Faith without works is dead.

An excellent slogan for the Christian might be HAVE FAITH—MUST WORK.

Concerning Divine Revelation

We have another excellent letter of control. But this we are from Bertram E. Moore of Kersey, Colorado.

The letter is on the subject of our conviction that God is just, morality, which is, and probably if God wishes us to believe in, will continue to be, one of the some particular revelation He great areas of discussion in our wishes to make. He is capable of letting us know. Therefore, since He does not choose to make this revelation to us, but, on the claim about morality only thru divine revelation, but that one is convinced, in each case where divine revelation is claimed, to ex- words of the other, as well as his erise reason as to whether the divine revelation is true or false. To our way of thinking, this is circular reasoning and invalid on its face. If a man must make use of his reason as he selects the particular channel for divine information, then he is going to have to apply his reason to (1) an evaluation of the character of the channel; (2) an evaluation of the message released by the chan- nel; (3) an evaluation of the re- But we would inquire how a state- sults obtained in either or both of justice could be preserved cases. In short, if Channel A pro- claims that he has had a mes- sage from God and this message indicates that it is immoral for the people to dance, then the person receiving this information from that they could be in communica- Channel A must decide first whether or not the character of the channel causes him to wish to rely on such a fabulous report, or control of the one. This would whether or not it seems to him obfuscate the original purpose. That dancing, per se, is immoral, create a system of special priv- Since the character of individ- ual men is never revealed, sav- ing by their speech and action, and in no case is it ever FULLY revealed, the recipient of this in- formation may decide to accept or reject the claim on this in- complete basis.

That is, if Channel A appears to be honest and reliable, has a rather solid reputation, is not in- clined to make wild and improba- ble statements, and apparently has nothing (on the surface) to be gained by such claim, then his statements may be accepted pure- ly on personal cognizance.

But they may be rejected just as rationally. If God reveals something to us, we are con- strained to believe it for it is an experience we have had.

But, granting that God could reveal anything he pleases to any- one, if He makes a revelation to another, we are not constrained to believe it for, lacking witness- es, it is hearsay and one does not have to believe hearsay.

This is especially important All we have done, in fact, is to when one keeps in mind the fact that God could not possibly be limited in His ability to reveal what He wishes to reveal.

If we accept what is purported to be a divine revelation to an- other, we are granting to the other a privileged status and we place ourselves under his influ- ence.

But, what have we really done? All we have done, in fact, is to examine the nature of dancing, according to our own experience. Our point is that we can and should do this anyway. We have employed our reason. And this is to be a divine revelation to an- other, whether someone claims to be a er a privileged status and we place ourselves under his influ- ence.

Taxpayers Against Foreign Aid

From Ft. Lauderdale (Fla.)
Daily News
Here we go again. That must have been the feel- ing of quite a few American tax- payers this week when they read the news that President John F. Kennedy had asked Congress for another $4,878,500,000 in foreign military and economic aid. This massive amount is nearly a billion dollars more than the President got last year and we rather imagine the extra amount was tacked on to the request in anticipation that Congress, as it usually does, will give the Presi- dent considerably less than he asked for originally.

As usual, also, the request for more billions to send abroad was accompanied by the direst kind of warning that unless we continue this fantastic giveaway program the way will be paved for all kinds of upheavals abroad which all U.S. "armies and atoms" could not stem.

Typical, too, was the quick pledge by Democratic congress- sional leaders, including Sen. George Smathers of Florida, to engage in an all-out fight to get the full amount the President requested thru the Congress.

This whole business has now been going on so long that the same script could be dusted off and used again every year. Not- ing ever seems to improve no matter how much of our tax money we throw around the world. The Communists still make their gains, crooked foreign politicians still line their pockets with our hard-earned money, and an in- creasing army of Washington bu- reaucrats and civil service em- ployes still go to sleep at night thinking up new ways to chan- nel even more of our money to friends and foes alike all over the world.

Since the foreign aid program started many years ago under the old Marshall Plan banner the U.S. has pumped more than $90 billion into the economies of scores upon scores of nations. Much of this money is now coming back to haunt us in the form of increased competition from foreign prod- ucers. Some has gone into Com- munist nations under the theory that if we can't win them away from us we can't win them away from us.

In this process the American taxpayer truly becomes the for- gotten man. In addition to being asked to pay the soaring costs of supporting his own government, he now has the burden of sup- porting the governments of a host of other foreign countries and if there is anything in our Constitution out that way but the giveaway which justifies taxing American citizens for the support of foreign governments we haven't been able to find it.

But try and get this issue be- fore our august federal courts. Refuse to pay your taxes and ask them to be taken to court and your bank account will be seized. If we can't win them away from us we can't win them away from us.

Disengagement

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The problem that President Kennedy faces, as President Eisenhower faced it, is how to dis- engage the United States not only from the complications of World War II but the consequences of a long series of events and agreements prior and subsequent thereto.

It is very much like an individ- ual's attempt to get out from under, as the expression goes. It is very often impossible.

To the layman, this particular problem always seems easy. Some say that we ought to go to war with Soviet Russia and thus solve all problems. Others say that an atomic war is the most horrible event imaginable and that, if, to avoid such a war, it is necessary to give in to Khrushchev, then we ought to give in.

But Khrushchev is not our only problem. What about all the financial obligations we have undertaken in all parts of the world? Must we keep on pouring out our wealth? Must we accept the responsibility for every new country that has come into exist- ence? And must we keep the United Nations alive even should it prove to be an instrument for our damage?

Some say, why not let these little countries go their own way even if that way leads to the Kremlin. Others say that we assumed the responsibility of world leadership and that having gone this far, there is nothing we can do about it. And then there is a mass of American public opinion which makes distinctions between the countries they like and the countries they dislike re- spective of American interests. There are the Anglophiles and Francophiles and those who love or hate Spain, and the Old China Hands who would destroy Mao Tse-tung's regime and those who would use food to rescue all peoples from the consequences of their sins by giving them our surplus wheat and butter and whatever comes to hand and there are those who would let all Communists starve to prove that Marxism is a failure. Need we mention our enemies so that they might bite the hand that feeds them?

MIXED VIEWS
Public opinion in a free coun- try is inevitably mixed because they wish, or else by that enemy obedience and would have pun- ished him, if God were inclined to ion by a vote. Besides, we be- lieve that out of debate will come however, the mother of all evils — pleasure.

MORALITY

To the Editor:
Your answers ("Divine Revela- tion" and "Communist Morality" of March 21) to my letter ("Mor- ality") were quite amazing to me.

To support your conclusion that morality is best learned thru ex- perience and thru the pain of im- morality, you argue around the issue. To show that Communists learn of morality thru immorality you point to two types of peo- ple: those who are enslaved by the Communists and former Com- munist who were revolted by the practical application of the the- ories of Marx and Lenin. Did these latter not realize that world conquest involved bloodshed and murder? Glad they were revolted and hope many more are.

But the point is that there are Communists who have made a success of murder and who have not yet experienced the pain of immorality. For example, Lenin, Stalin, and Khrushchev and many of their red-handed cohorts. For them morality is one thing and for you and I it is another. Thus, morals are relative, not absolute; unless, of course, their experi- ences are not yet complete and they experience the pain of im- morality in eternity and thus learn of morality thru experience. But this depends entirely on di- vine revelation, doesn't it? If the Divine Being reveals His wrath to them they will know that mor- als are absolute.

In supporting your position on morality you seem to have re- versed yourself on other issues as well as on morality. You state that "essentially, Communists are the force of public opin- ion into the channels that their own worst enemies, the more they chose, but Roosevelt, the politi- cian, was at the beginning of a will fail." If this is so, then let phase of history in which we still go all out for foreign aid to the Communists. Let us sell them our planes and train their pilots. Let us sell them our wheat or even give it to them for the more they succeed, the more they will fail. Was this always your position?

In any case, this is what you advocate when you speak of ap- plying the Golden Rule precisely. You apply it negatively, but that is hardly applying it precisely. You state that "since we do not wish to be the victims of a mur- derer... we may restrain ourselves from murdering." But this is not enough if we are to apply the Golden Rule as you suggest. The Golden Rule does not state that we should not do unto others as we would not have them do unto us, but "all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." Thus if we were to desire the Commu- nists to be friendly, trust us, dis- arm, share their knowledge in the areas of space and the atom, then these things we do first. And this is what we should do for the world will help them to succeed and thereby hasten their failure.

But you go on in referring to producers being lured or reward- ed, you state that "a system built on universal plunder and spoliation will be discovered to be im- moral because of the results it will get." Results for whom? The results of the Communist system have been tremendous for the few Communists at the top. There- fore, it is moral. The end justifies the means, a part of the moral code of the Communists. The moral code also of the In- quisition, one of the blacker spots in the history of religion. Russia has gained much of the world thru lying and deceit: does this illustrate moral law? Somehow, this seems to smack of being "an- titheistic to what reason tells us is true."

This brings us back to the sub- ject of divine revelation. And there are, as you suggest, many problems in this area. How to choose the correct one out of the many claims to revelation? It seems we first must believe that there is a God. If we do not, we will hardly seek a revelation. First, then, there must be faith. Then, I believe, we can use our intelligence and reason to de- termine which revelation we will choose. (Of course, we can use our intelligence and reason to help us to believe in the first place, and we should, but to seek a revelation which we will embrace as true we certainly must first be- lieve there is a God.)

But, in what manner do we use our intelligence and reason? If, as you said, men learn of morali- ty thru experience and in the process of experiences and learn- ing change their minds, how can we be sure our understanding of morality is now correct? If our understanding of morality is at the present time wrong, and we base our knowledge of God on our understanding of morality, we may be worshipping the devil. Is our knowledge of God to be based on that of which we can never be certain? Is theology to be based on morality or is morality based in God? Is God right because we say so or is it right right be- cause God says so? If God is right because He does what we think is moral, what happens if we change our mind? How can we ever be sure of what is right? We can't — unless it is shown to us by divine revelation.

Then how can we use reason to choose the correct revelation? It seems that if the doctrines of a revelation are self-consistent they have met the only legitimate test of reason, the test of logic. And, of course, a special revela- tion (as the Bible) would have to agree with God's natural revela- tion of Himself. This would mean a search for truth and with all would require diligence and still the claims this search would leave many problems and ques- tions. But this should be worth- while. But the Bible says, "He it if we have faith there is a God that cometh to God must believe. We owe much to men who have that He is, and that He is a re- d- diledigence, men in many warder of them that diligently fields, men who have come up seek Him (Hebrews 11:6)." "The with answers that appeared reward that He gives is the Truth, wrong, but who were diligent in and Jesus Christ is the personifi- cation of Truth (John 14:6)." BERTRAM E. 'EXTREME RIGHT'

To the Editor:
To be an extreme right-winger a person must be a God-fearing patriot who believes that we can only be free and keep our republic by demanding that all officers of the federal government follow the dictates of the Constitution in all acts of public office.

To set the record straight, ex- treme right-wingers did not give billions to Communist Russia in World War II; they did not and do not vote foreign aid to Commu- nist countries and countries who violate international law and the right of American citizens; they never have voted to buy your freedom with your own tax dol- lars; they did not sell the free world down the river at Tehran, Yalta, and Potsdam; they did not turn free Nationalist China over to the Communists, upon orders of a now high official in the Pentagon, who sent them bailing wire and dumped their intended munitions in the ocean; they did not keep us from a military victory and a just peace in Korea; they did not give North Vietnam to the Communists; they did not with- hold aid from the Hungarian patri- ots and stop Adenauer and Franco from supplying them with sorely needed arms and equip- ment; they did not withhold aid and condemn East Germany and Poland in their revolt against Communist Russia; they did not give the military order to forcibly return 5,000,000 refugees back behind the Iron Curtain after World War II; they did not give the last minute order to withhold aid and naval support during the Cuban invasion; they had no part in withdrawing diplomatic relations from the Dominican republic, which had an anti-Communist dic- tator and last but not least the EXTREME RIGHT — WINGERS are not trying to abolish the "House Committee on Un-Ameri- can Activities" and smear and suppress all other anti-Communist efforts by alert patriotic Americans.

How can the traitors, Commu- nists, liberals and nit wits, who are criticizing the extreme right wingers, show us where we are endangering our country by try- ing to return this government to the dignity and respect that we once held when governed by God-fearing patriots?

Their record of thirty years of treason speaks for itself. Section 2381 of Title 18 of the Criminal Statutes of the United States in part states: "Whoever, owing allegiance to the United States, levies war against them or ad- heres to their enemies giving them aid or comfort, in the United States, or elsewhere, is guilty of treason and SHALL SUFFER DEATH."

It seems to me that the United States district attorney and fore- man of United States grand jury in Washington, D.C., has a lot of unfinished legal business to take care of provided, of course, that this definition of treason is still a part of the United States Criminal Statutes.

Bobby Kennedy, why have you failed to crack down on unregis- tered Communists — or is it only extreme right wingers who regard high position in the government as a serious public trust and an ob- ligation to God and country?

Revamping of Court System Being Sought

DENVER (UPI) — A campaign to enlist support for an amendment calling for a revamping of the Colorado court system will begin at a Denver meeting Tuesday.

The Citizens' Committee on Modern Courts, headed by Robert L. Stearns, is sponsoring the amendment which will be voted on in the November elections.

Stearns said the major points of the amendment are the elimination of Justice of the Peace Courts and transferring their duties to county courts, and the transfer of probate, mental health and juvenile responsibilities from county to district courts.

Speaking at the Tuesday campaign meeting will be Chief Judge Alfred P. Murrah of the U. S. District Court of Appeals, Tenth Circuit.

Murrah is a leader of the movement to modernize state court systems in the U.S. Stearns said.

BOGOTA — Locally produced parts must account for 70 per cent to 75 per cent of certain county courts, and the transfer of products made in Colombia.

Dutch Defeat Motion To Surrender Colony

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch lower house today rejected two Labor party motions that would have provided for surrender of West New Guinea to Indonesia.

The Laborites called for preparedness by the Netherlands to transfer sovereignty over the island colony to President Sukarno's Indonesian regime and a halt in the shipment of military reinforcements to the Dutch garrison.

Both motions were voted down 90-47.

Foreign Minister Joseph Luns said the government could not accept the transfer of sovereignty as a precondition for formal talks with Indonesia.

He said the government considers the interests of the Papuans, who make up most of West New Guinea's people, and their right to self-determination are of central importance.

Government sources said Ellsworth Bunker, the U.S. diplomat acting as third party in Dutch-Indonesian secret talks in Washington, has called on both nations to resume negotiations.

En route home, the travelers stopped at the Grand Canyon.

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Herzberger have returned from a three-week fishing trip to Mexico. They spent most of their time at Guaymas and Mazatlan, but due to the unusually cold weather, fishing was poor.

Miss Herzberger was on the Dean's list for the past semester, was elected to Spur, sophomore honorary, and to Chi Omega social sorority, and is vice president of her dorm wing. She was accompanied to Phoenix by Margo Renwick, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Repwick, formerly of Colorado Springs, now live at Scottsdale, and Fannie McGraw, formerly of Colorado Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob McGraw. Bringing Up Baby.

Once a baby turns toddler, a mother may feel that her newly independent gadabout needs less attention than a "may-pot" baby. Actually the reverse is usually true. A toddler needs extra affection to offset increased frustration or failures... extra encouragement in the development of skills... extra protection from household hazards.

Teaching tactics. Your role as a teacher now becomes very important. As you train your toddler to self-help, your success will be greater if you teach only one thing at a time and make sure that the goal is within your child's capabilities. Praise for achievement will inspire your tyke to mightier efforts.

Appetite-brighteners for eager-beavers. Offer plentiful variety. Serve foods with appealing colors and flavors that sing. Gerber Junior Foods fill the bill beautifully. There are over 40 varieties, all processed by experts with special know-how in the art of preserving true colors and naturally good flavors. (To say nothing of the utmost in nutritive values.)

Can't think of a more nourishing way to teach your cherub animal names.

Hygiene hints. If you make hand-washing before meals a regular part of your toddler's self-training schedule, he'll come to accept this as part of the mealtime procedure. When he's able to do it himself, he'll like a small towel he can call his own. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

From my experience, another Mrs. Bertha B. Everhart, a tough, common spot to remove is home economist, has written to me that chickens should not be frozen in empty milk cartons sugar, grease and solid matter combined.

"Poultry is especially vulnerable to micro-organisms which cause food poisoning. The utmost care should be exercised when freezing it.

"It is recommended that used cartons and containers which cannot be sterilized, be avoided in freezing of foods. It is stressed that packaging materials be of a moisture-vapor proof nature, pliable enough to fit closely about the food to exclude air."

Our thanks to you Bertha Heloise

Dear Heloise:

In my nearly 40 years' experience in retail drug business, I have received thousands of requests for the "best" method of removing certain types of spots and stains.

The usual run-of-the-mill spots and stains respond to various commercial preparations available at every corner drug store. I am mentioning a few answers for some real toughies.

CHOCOLATE stains seem to be a perennial problem and are quite easily removed by the application of glycerin. Just massage the glycerin into the fabric well and wash out with plain water. If the stain is not removed the first time, additional applications will do the trick.

MERTHIOLEATE and MERCURIOCHROME stains seem tough, too. These stains may be removed with acetic acid, and this usually works wonders. Just add a little vinegar to denatured alcohol and in most cases the stains will be removed from either cloth or the hands with the first application (1 teaspoon vinegar to 1 cup alcohol)

Dear Heloise:

I find that equal parts of turpentine and ammonia will remove paint from clothing even if the paint has hardened.

I removed household bleach odor from my hands with dry mustard.

And did you know that anything on your hands that was "slick" such as household bleach could be removed by applying vinegar straight from the bottle? Then rinse.

Dear Heloise:

I have solved the problem of too-thin diapers for my three-year-old who still wets at night by using his old flannel receiving blankets.

A friend of mine suggested using facial tissues to line the coffee basket when perking coffee. It works wonderfully. It not only filters the coffee but the grounds come out of the basket beautifully.

Turkeys and Chickens Fail in Freedom Flight

NEW YORK (AP) — A truck loaded with 400 chickens and 64 turkeys crashed into a girder in Brooklyn Monday. Four cases of the birds fell off the truck and broke open.

The birds made a dash for freedom, but it went awry. "Gobble, gobble," went the turkeys, and a lot of scrambling Brooklynites took them at their word. They grabbed the poultry and headed for the nearest stewing pot.

A headcount by the truck driver showed 10 turkeys and 25 chickens had found new homes.

Tobaccos Rebound in Irregular Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—Tobacco was narrowly mixed, rebounding in an irregularly higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 10 at 233.40 with industrials off 10, rails up 20 and utilities up 10.

Except for tobacco, which made a strong recovery, changes of most stocks were small, leaving the plus signs in the majority.

The tobacco stocks, subjected to emotional selling yesterday due to an accumulation of news about anti-cigarette campaigns in Europe, met substantial buying support, several rising well over a point.

Steels were fairly steady, having digested forecasts of a drop in orders this spring due to avoidance of a steel strike. The group

Uranium Cost Factors Ignored, Office Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The General Accounting Office charged Wednesday the Atomic Energy Commission arrived at a guaranteed price of $8 a pound for uranium concentrates without properly determining cost factors.

The commission has agreed to pay $8 a pound for uranium concentrates from domestic producers from 1962 through 1966.

The GAO, fiscal watchdog agency of Congress, said the AEC will have to pay $33 million more for its uranium concentrates during the 1962-66 period than it did before.

"The guaranteed price of $8 a pound," was announced by AEC in May, 1956, when the uranium industry was in its relatively early stages of development, to become effective in 1962 and to remain effective through 1966.

"We were unable to determine and evaluate the basis for the $8 price because of the incomplete nature of supporting documentation," the GAO report said.

"We did determine, however, that AEC did not make adequate audits of costs under representative existing contracts and thereby did not avail itself of important basic information essential to the establishment of a guaranteed price," the GAO report said.

The AEC divided its procurement periods—one prior to 1962 and one after. It started negotiating contracts with its 21 suppliers in 1958.

"At June 30, 1961," the report continued, "21 fixed price contracts provided for deliveries... in both... periods. A comparison of the negotiated fixed unit prices, exclusive of amortization of plant costs, for the pre-1962 period with the $8 price applicable in the 1962-66 period shows that the $8 price is higher under nine contracts, the same under seven and lower under five contracts."

"The net effect is that AEC's quantities will be about $33.9 million higher at the $8 price than if the comparable 1962 prices were effective during that period."

The AEC did not agree with the GAO conclusions.

Search for Freedom (26) A World to Win by Don Oakley and John Lane

Karl Marx devoted most of his life (he died in 1883) to expounding his economic philosophy in the monumental Das Kapital (Capital), which was completed by Friedrich Engels. The Manifesto of 1848, however, remains the guide and framework of the Communist movement.

Under capitalism, in Marx's opinion, labor produces more than it is paid. This "surplus value" goes into the pockets of the owners or is put into capital improvement to create more wealth. This wealth inevitably would concentrate into fewer and fewer hands, while the proletarians—the exploited workers—would grow in number and militancy. The revolution would result in a temporary dictatorship by the proletariat, with the common ownership of all means of production and all property of a public nature. Eventually, the need for government itself would disappear. (Marx was vague, however, on just how this last event would come about.)

Marx borrowed the idea of the "dialectic" from the German philosopher Hegel. This was the theory that all natural and human history is the result of the clash between conflicting forces. Marx brought it down from metaphysics to the world of economics. This was "dialectical materialism."

The formula was: Thesis vs. antithesis = synthesis. For instance, feudalism may be the thesis. The antithesis is the growth of commerce. The conflict—the class struggle—results in a new synthesis: capitalism. Capitalism in turn becomes a thesis, whose antithesis is increasing poverty and misery for the mass of men. The new synthesis, according to Marx, would be communism, the ultimate goal of history.

The appeal of Marxism lay in the fact that it was more than a theory; it was a plan of action. It explained history and gave hope for the future. The "dialectic" governed the universe itself. To its followers, communism was a religion mixed with apparent scientific certainty. It was a new way, a new truth and a new life.

Marx did not hate individual capitalists, but the preaching of class warfare and class dictatorship was to lead, in the hands of unscrupulous men, to an era of violence and evil.

Aggression Definition Shelled by U.N. Experts

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A 21-nation U.N. committee decided Monday to shelve for another three years the problem of trying to define aggression.

The committee approved a resolution submitted by Cyprus proposing postponement. The resolution said many new members had not yet expressed their views on definition of aggression and there was not sufficient indications from member states as to when they wanted another General Assembly debate on the issue.

The question came up in the 1951, 1952, 1954 and 1957 assembly sessions.

Alaska Proved Real Buy At 2-Cents-Per-Acre Price

By LYNN POOLE
The Johns Hopkins University

Russia has sold us a sucker's orange.

Such was the blunt opinion of the editors of the New York World published 95 years ago this week—up the announcement that the United States was to purchase Alaska from Russia for the sum of $7,200,000.

In all of American history, hardly ever was there a development greeted with such derision and catcalls as descended upon the head of Secretary of State William H. Seward when he negotiated for the purchase of Alaska, that large tract of land one-fifth the size of the continental U. S. which was variously called "Seward's Folly," "Seward's Icebox," "Walrusia," and other chilly sobriquets. One congressman said that soon we would "hear that Greenland and Iceland are on the market."

Another, Rep. Benjamin F. Loan, a radical congressman from St. Louis, said "the acquisition of this inhospitable and barren waste (will) never add a dollar to the wealth of our country. Alaska is utterly worthless."

How wrong he was! By 1900 even, Alaska had yielded $52 million in furs, $50 million in fisheries, and $31 million in gold from the well-publicized gold strikes.

But of course, it is the contemporary fact that Alaska is a State of the United States rather than a territory of Russia which adds impact to the story of how Secretary Seward got Alaska from Russia.

Overtures for her purchase began in 1859 when an unofficial offer of $5,000,000 was made for the territory, but before any further transactions could be carried out, the U. S. became embroiled in the Civil War and it was more concerned with keeping itself together than with annexing new problems.

After the war, however, Secretary Seward, who served with distinction in President Lincoln's cabinet, began to think anew of the possibilities of obtaining Alaska.

A very few persons, mostly those with fishing interests on the west coast, expressed concern about Alaska. By 1867, the matter was referred to Secretary Seward, who in turn conferred with the Russian Minister to the U. S., Baron Edouard Stoeckel. The U. S. Minister to Russia, Cassius M. Clay, was likewise instructed to sound out Russian authorities in St. Petersburg.

By February of 1867, it appeared to Seward that Russia would be willing to sell the territory. During the month of March he negotiated with Baron Stoeckel. The Russian agreed to sell for $10 million. Seward offered $5 million. A few days passed and they compromised on $7,200,000. Further dickering arrived at the final price, $7,200,000—two cents an acre.

On the evening of March 29, 1867, Baron Stoeckel called at Secretary Seward's house in Washington, interrupting his nightly whist game, and informed him of the receipt of a cablegram reporting the Emperor's consent to the proposition; then the Baron added that he would be ready to prepare the required treaty the next day since haste was desirable.

Secretary Seward pushed himself back from his cards and said: "Why wait 'til tomorrow, Mr. Stoeckel? Let us make the treaty tonight."

And they did. Needed clerks were summoned. Senator Charles Sumner, the chairman of the Senate committee on foreign affairs, was notified, the Russian Minister sent for his retinue of assistants, and at midnight all met at the Department of State.

By 4 o'clock in the morning of March 30, 1867, the "Treaty of Cession of Russian America to the United States" was drawn up and signed.

A little more than a week later, on April 9, 95 years ago this week, the Senate ratified the treaty. On April 12, news of the purchase was announced to the press and public.

As the noted historian Bancroft says, "The purchase of Alaska week vacation in Phoenix. While there they went to Old Mexico, greatest service to his country."

Today, we most certainly agree. (FROM FILE 7 is a weekly feature distributed by The Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland.)

MEMORIAL PARK PLAN—Scale model shows what Memorial Park is expected to look like five years from now. The City Council today announced approval of the long-range development program for the 90-acre city park. View is to the east from Hancock Avenue, with Prospect Lake at the right. Among the planned facilities are a swimming center (upper center) that will include a 150-foot pool and new parking facilities. Above the pool is a circular memorial. At extreme upper left is a planned garden center and arboretum. A divided boulevard entrance (top center) is planned from Union Boulevard with a fountain to be located at the first juncture with the proposed park drive that will wind thru the area. Directly below the Union Boulevard entrance is an artificial lake with a landscaped amphitheater for outdoor stage and musical presentations. Eight tennis courts are planned beyond center field of the baseball park, and handball courts are proposed against the concrete outfield fence. At Prospect Lake the fishing area will be moved to the northwest end, with new boating facilities to be constructed at the opposite end of the lake. Landscaping and new trees will cover the entire area, with a "green belt" separating all park facilities from adjoining residential areas. Estimated cost of the project is $500,000 to $700,000.

Mellow Horns Featured by Bearzi Group

By JOHN FETLER

The Concerto Ensemble brought its fourth season to a close last Friday at the Fine Arts Center, with two Denver French horn players as the highlights of the program. The French horn players were Janet Remanelli and Leo Sacchi. They played "A Musical Joke" for "Two Horns" by Mozart, with the Concerto Ensemble, in which their high technical skill, fine tone and remarkable tonal control a special case, always with French horns, of course, was gratifying to anyone who knows the difficulties of this instrument.

The program, conducted by John Bearzi, was of interest also from some other viewpoints: A Sinfonia in G by Mozart's father, Leopold, was performed showing that old Mozart was a composer of some skill, if not of great inspiration, since his compositional talents obviously ran on pedagogical lines. And yet, this work, preceding that of his famous son, was a welcome musical curiosity, and well performed.

So were also the other works on the program: A Concerto Grosso by Handel, a Sinfonia by Carl P. E. Bach, and a suite in F for two horns by Telemann, in which again the horns showed their mellow skill. The violins were Stanford Leibow, Roland Jones, Sam Chernyk and Margaret Shakespeare; the violas were Robert Laurell, Helen Stalman; the cellos were Nikolai Saulius and Yolanda Hager; the bass was played by Robert Monroey and the harpsichord by Robert Miller.

Carson Men Fined for Whiskey Theft

Two Ft. Carson men, Charles Wayne Johnson and Henry Rodney Orgill were fined $25 each with costs, in Justice of the Peace H. C. McShane's court Monday when they pleaded guilty to stealing two bottles of whiskey.

The liquor, which was worth $15.98 was taken from Jerry's Bar, 118 N. Tejon St. early Saturday morning in full view of the customers who reported the matter to the waitress who had been busy at the time.

The men were arrested shortly afterwards by police who found them lurking in the area. In his haste to escape Johnson tripped and fell cutting himself on the bottle which smashed.

Swearing by Bus Driver Not Peace Breach, Judge Rules

Municipal Judge Allan Asher ruled that swear words used by a city bus driver before passengers on a crowded bus did not constitute breach of peace and dismissed the charge brought against Arthur Huddleston, 36, of 1504 W. Cheyenne Boulevard in Municipal Court Monday.

Robert D. Turner, 3315 N. Arcadia St., the complainant, testified that Huddleston had cut off his vehicle by angling in front of him at the intersection of Pikes Peak Avenue and Tejon Street and almost forced him over the curb in order to avoid a collision. Turner said that the bus abruptly changed from the left to the right lane of traffic and angled into a bus stop in front of the Exchange National Bank.

The complainant said that in order to avoid a collision he was forced to swerve sharply toward the curb, causing a number of his children who were riding in his vehicle, to fall to the floor.

He said that after the incident he parked and walked to the open door of the bus and asked Huddleston what he thought he was doing.

Huddleston then swore at him and told him that since he was in the right hand lane of traffic he should have made a right hand turn, Turner said.

Huddleston denied that he had told Turner he should have made the right hand turn. He told the court that since the Turner vehicle was in the right hand traffic lane he more or less expected him to turn right.

He admitted that he had used the word damn in his conversation with Turner after the complainant had embarrassed him in front of his passengers.

Asher said that in his opinion the bad language used by Huddleston did not constitute a breach of peace.

Prof. Federico Sanchez Escobedo, the founder of a bold new school of literary criticism, will discuss "Lope de Vega and English Drama of the 17th Century" at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in Colorado College's Perkins Hall.

The talk is a part of the Colorado College romance language department's observance of the fourth centennial of the birth of Lope de Vega, Spain's greatest dramatist and the author of some 800 plays.

One of the nation's leading Spanish scholars, Dr. Escobedo is professor and chairman of the Spanish department at the University of Colorado.

Professor Escobedo is one of the founders and supporters of a new school in literary criticism which sees all the arts — painting, sculpture, architecture, literature — as a reflection of the epoch in which they were produced, not only in regard to content, but also in regard to artistic technique.

This approach has been applied chiefly to the Renaissance and Baroque periods in literary history. Periods which formerly were not clearly differentiated.

The Spanish scholar is co-author of two books "Afirmaciones de Lope de Vega Sobre Preceptiva Dramatica a Base de Cien Comedias," and "Waefflin's Principles in Spanish Drama 1500 - 1700."

Professor Escobedo has done extensive research and writing on the Renaissance, humanism, the Baroque in Spain, the works of Erasmus, and general studies in poetry.

Born in Madrid in 1902, Lope de Vega is regarded as the world's most prolific playwright of stature. And, he frequently would dash off a play in one day.

During his lifetime he enjoyed unprecedented popularity with his dramatic "cape and sword plays," still popular throughout the Spanish - speaking world.

Group To Discuss Special Program In Local Schools

The Pikes Peak branch of the Association for Childhood Education will meet at 4 p.m. Thursday for a program and discussion about work that is being done in the special education classes operated by School District 11.

Mrs. Betty Brueggeman's students in the afternoon class will be participants in the program and will serve tea to the guests. Following this a discussion and business meeting will be held.

According to Thomas Hockman, supervisor of special education for School District 11, there are two classes for children in the elementary age range from seven to twelve at both Washington and Lincoln schools.

Classes for the mentally handicapped are limited to a maximum of fifteen children. Teachers for all of these classes have had special training for work with exceptional children. They include: Alice Baker, Betty Brueggeman, Zora O'Neil, Dorothy Naisse and Joyce Conner.

At South Junior and Palmer High School, additional classes are offered for older boys and girls. Instructors for these are: Daniel Montero and William Harsh at South Junior High School; and Russell Eaker and Floyd S. Rogers at the high school.

In addition to classes for the mentally handicapped, the special education services include the speech therapy program. Francis Schroeder, Mrs. Lucretia Blander and Dennis Darnier are employed as full time speech correctors and Hockman devotes a half of his day to the program.

The correctors are assigned to various elementary schools and children needing speech therapy are referred by the teacher.

Also coming under the supervision of Hockman is the homebound hospitalized tutoring program under which any child in the school district unable to attend school for physical reasons for a period of six weeks or more may request the services of a tutor during the time they are out of school.

Also sponsored is a special program for gifted children.

He will address the educators at 7:30 p.m. in the Base Line Junior High School auditorium at 26th and Base Line Streets in Boulder.

Several board members stated that although these principles are implicitly in the school philosophy adopted last year, they felt that a formal statement should be included as a preface. The board directed Dunning to draft such a statement for later board approval.

Benetz will speak on "Politics and the Courts," and some of the topics he will discuss will be the Kennedy appointed federal judges and the method of selection of the judiciary. He has also been asked to distinguish between a Republican and a Democrat judge.

The meeting is sponsored by the civic and government class of Karval High School where Judge Eckhart will give his talk.

Wednesday to Be Fine-Free Day On Overdue Books

Wednesday has been set aside as a fine-free day on overdue books at the Colorado Springs Public Library and its two branches, according to Mrs. Margaret C. Reid, city librarian.

This means, she said, that any overdue books from the Colorado Springs public library system can be returned without having to pay the customary fine.

Mrs. Reid said the fine-free day held last year was successful in getting books back into circulation. Some were overdue many weeks and months, even years.

It is hoped that the fine-free day will be even more successful this year since it is being held during National Library Week, the theme of which is "Read - and Watch Your World Grow."

"Library patrons need not feel embarrassed in returning the overdue books," she said, since every effort is being made to make the returns as easy and painless as possible.

Reds Topple Into '10th' In Opener

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati's defending champion Reds, first National League team to occupy 10th place since the turn of the century, will try to climb out today as the expanded circuit gets its 87th season rolling with a full program of second day openers.

The Reds, as original franchise holders in the NL, traditionally are accorded the privilege of officially opening the season at home each year. They raised the curtain for the 76th time Monday and were unceremoniously drubbed 12-4 by the Philadelphia Phillies.

They'll be trying to register on the other side of the ledger when they invade Los Angeles and help the Dodgers get under way before an expected sellout crowd of 56,000 in the new $18-million Dodger stadium.

Houston and New York will make their debuts under different circumstances, the Colts opening before the home folks against Chicago while the Mets are at St. Louis for a night game.

Milwaukee is at San Francisco and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh in the other openers as the National League unveils a 10-club circuit playing a 162-game schedule for the first time in its venerable history.

The Reds sent 21-game winner Joey Jay against the Phillies Monday and the ace of the staff lasted 2-1-3 innings before leaving with the score 5-0, including a homer by Clay Dalrymple in the second.

The Reds are expected to come back today with left-hander Jim O'Toole, 19-9 last season when Cincinnati won its first National League pennant in 20 years. Southpaw Johnny Podres (18-5 last year) will oppose him for the Dodgers, who launched their new ball park in Chavez Ravine Monday with a dedication program.

The Colt's send their cast of hand-me-downs front and center in a temporary stadium that will serve as home until a new domed ball park is completed. The Cubs will start with four rookies in the line-up—Lou Brock in centerfield, Ken Hubbs at second, Elder White at short and Cuno Barragan catching Don Cardwell (15-14). Bobby Shantz (6-3) will open for Harry Carlin's Colts.

The Mets open with a host of old faces—Richie Ashburn, Charley Neal, Gil Hodges, Gus Bell and Frank Thomas, pitcher Roger Craig (5-6)—and Manager Casey Stengel. Stan (The Man) Musial, operating in the No. 4 batting position for the Cardinals, can set another league record if he scores two runs. Larry Jackson (14-11) will be the pitcher.

Warren Spahn, (21-13), like Musial a member of the over-40 club, will be gunning for victory brought up first baseman-outfielder No. 310 when he takes the mound for the Braves at San Francisco, last-Fort Worth farm club, and facing a Giant batting order led sent right-handed pitcher Johnny by NL home run king Orlando James to the same club on option.

SWING AND SLIP—Infielder Bob Johnson of the Washington Senators slips and falls after taking a hefty cut at the ball in the eighth inning of Monday's opening game with the Detroit Tigers. Detroit catcher Dick Brown is behind the plate. Johnson, who slammed a two-run homer in the previous inning, racked up a hit at this time at bat. Washington won 4-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Nuxhall, McDevitt, Tanner Get "Life" in Major Loops

By United Press International
Joe Nuxhall, Danny McDevitt and Chuck Tanner, three well-traveled baseball players, got a new "life" today, but it was back to the minors for such as Von McDaniel, Johnny James and Joe Christopher in last-minute changes made before major league openers.

Nuxhall, who broke into the majors with the Cincinnati Reds in 1944 at the age of 15, was purchased from Rochester of the International League by the Los Angeles Angels. McDevitt was plucked from Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League by the Kansas City Athletics, and Tanner was picked up by the Angels from Dallas-Fort Worth of the American Association.

Nuxhall, a left-handed pitcher, was with Kansas City last year and had a 5-8 won-lost record. He has an overall record of 89-89 in the majors, mostly with the Reds. McDevitt, also a left-hander, broke Craig (5-6)—and Manager Casey Stengel. Stan (The Man) Musial, operating in the No. 4 batting position for the Cardinals, can set another league record if he scores two runs. Larry Jackson (14-11) will be the pitcher.

Warren Spahn, (21-13), like Musial a member of the over-40 club, will be gunning for victory brought up first baseman-outfielder No. 310 when he takes the mound for the Braves at San Francisco, last-Fort Worth farm club, and facing a Giant batting order led sent right-handed pitcher Johnny by NL home run king Orlando James to the same club on option.

McDaniel, one-time St. Louis Cardinals whiz-kid pitcher who of the American Association, was trying to make it back to the majors as an infielder, was cut by the Houston Colt 45s, who sent him to Oklahoma City of the American Association. McDaniel was drafted by the Colts from Cardinals' farm club at Tulsa, where he hit 15 homers a year ago.

Christopher, one of the top bats in the New York Mets' training camp this spring, was sent to Syracuse of the IL on 24-hour recall with the promise from Manager Casey Stengel that he would be brought back as soon as possible. Taking his place on the roster was young infielder Ron Kanehl, who hit .304 for Nashville a year ago.

All the changes were necessitated by baseball rules which state that opening-day rosters shall be frozen at 28 players. One month after the start of the season each club will have to cut down to 25 players.

The Milwaukee Braves promoted pitcher Hank Fischer and outfielder Mike Krsnich, both of whom had been training with

The Minnesota Twins sent right-hander Bill Pleis on option to Vancouver and brought up 21-year-old catcher Orlando Martinez from Charlotte, N.C., as insurance for ailing shortstop Zorro Versalles.

The Pittsburgh Pirates re-assigned the contracts of 13 minor league players and purchased catcher Orlando McFarlane from Columbus of the International League, while the Los Angeles Dodgers got down to the limit by sending 11 minor league hands to farm clubs.

The Mets also announced that Red Ruffing and Red Kress are being retained as permanent coaches. Both worked with the club during spring training and now give the new NL club a coaching staff of five.

President Kennedy Enjoys Opening Game, Nats' Win

WASHINGTON (AP)—He al-sada, president of the Washington Club. He ducked again in the fourth inning—this time in his seat—to avoid a lofty foul pop from the bat of Washington outfielder Willie Tasby that threatened to go down as the first presidential baseball in history.

He enjoyed the Washington Senators' 4-1 opening day baseball victory Monday over the Detroit Tigers so much, in fact, he put off business at the White House and stayed to the finish.

Back at the mansion, aides talked over trouble in Southeast Asia with Laotian Ambassador Tiao Khampan while the President rooted for the home team at Washington's magnificent new stadium.

The ambassador was aware the game had been delayed by rain and obligingly agreed to a half-hour postponement of his 5 p.m. appointment. Subordinates filled in until the President showed up with apologies at 5:30.

It wasn't all fun. Kennedy threw out the first ball, grabbed by Washington pitcher Marty Kutyna. A half-hour later he had to duck through the Senators' dugout to escape a drenching from the rain that delayed play for 22 minutes.

Kennedy spent the recess in the umpires' dressing room, chatting baseball with umps Joe Paparella and Hank Soar and E. R. Que-

Ford Starts NY Toward Third Flag

By MIKE RATHET
President Kennedy has thrown his last pitch of the season, and Whitey Ford is set to fire his first today as the world champion New York Yankees start their campaign for a third consecutive American League pennant.

The President officially opened the baseball season Monday, throwing out the first ball amid the traditional pomp and circumstance in the national capital, then staying to watch Washington whip Detroit 4-1 behind Bennie Daniels' five-hitter.

The two teams take the day off today while the remainder of the league raises the curtain with Baltimore at New York, Cleveland at Boston, Los Angeles at Chicago and Minnesota at Kansas City.

In the National League, Cincinnati is at Los Angeles, Chicago at Houston, New York at St. Louis in a night game, Milwaukee at San Francisco, and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh. The defending champion Reds held their traditional NL home opener Monday, losing to Philadelphia 12-4.

Daniels went the distance in his opening-day assignment before the crowd of 44,383 that jammed the Senators' new $20-million District of Columbia Stadium. It was the largest crowd ever to see a baseball game in Washington.

Daniels struck out seven and walked only two while driving in one of the Senators' runs. The Tigers scored when Al Kaline hit into a force play following singles by Jake Wood and Bill Bruton. Bob Johnson led a 13-hit attack with a two-run homer in the fourth inning off Don Mossi that put the Senators ahead for good, plus two singles.

Ford, the little southpaw who won the Cy Young Award as the outstanding pitcher in the majors last season after compiling a 25-4 record, will be backed by the powerful Yankee attack that numbers Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle among its homer hammerers. Shortstop Tom Tresh, filling the post vacated when Tony Kubek went into the Army, is the lone new face in the starting lineup.

Left-hander Billy Hoelt (7-4) will start for the Orioles, who'll have rookie sensation John "Boog" Powell in left field, trade acquisition Johnny Temple at second and Jerry Adair at shortstop in place of Ron Hansen, like Kubek a member of Uncle Sam's forces.

New Cleveland skipper Mel McGaha will unveil rookies Ty Cline and Al Luplow in the outfield and send Dick Donovan (10-10) at Washington) to the mound against the Red Sox. Boston will go with Don Schwall (15-7), rookie of the year in 1961, and start newly acquired Ed Bressoud at shortstop.

The White Sox, returning to the go-go formula that won the pennant in 1959, will have trade acquisitions Joe Cunningham and Charlie Smith at first and third base, respectively. Juan Pizarro (14-7) will handle the pitching, facing the Angels' Eli Grba (11-13).

Ed Rakow (2-8) is tapped for the A's starting assignment and will oppose Jack Kralick (13-11). The Twins, still counting on the potent bats of Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon, will go with an almost completely re-made infield.

Tiger Thinclads Tackle A-State In Dual Contest

Colorado College's track team, which recently captured the Rocky Mountain Conference indoor title, tackles one of its top challengers today when Adams State travels here for a dual meet at Washburn Field. The first event is scheduled for 3 p.m.

The meet, not on the original CC schedule, was announced by Coach Frank Flood Monday afternoon. Adams State won the RMC outdoor championship last spring.

The Tigers will have several of the conference's leading thinclads on display for their opening outdoor competition. This includes four outdoor champions in Dave Krell (discus), Don Kintz (two pole), Dale McNeal (440), and a mule vaulter Jim Blair. Also a figure of interest is Abrodun (for 70 yards) which hardly is Afonia, CC's African broad jumper who has been winning regularly.

Bears, Bisons Open Playoffs

By United Press International
The Buffalo Bisons and Hershey Bears open their best-of-five semifinal series in the American Hockey League playoffs at Hershey tonight.

Hershey, which had to go into a sudden-death overtime before eliminating Providence in the quarter-finals, will have the advantage of an extra home game should the series go the full five games. However, the Bisons appeared extra sharp while defeating Rochester in two straight games in their opening series.

BETWEEN THE LINES

Shoot for the Moon

Looking at a schedule that includes no less than five teams (half the slate) that played in bowl games last fall, it would seem difficult to be optimistic about chances for the coming football season.

Yet that's how the people who push the buttons at the Air Force Academy feel about the Falcons for this fall. Perhaps it's already a tradition at the school to shoot for the moon, but nonetheless, they aren't checking out the crying towel along with the cleats and shoulder pads for spring practice at the AFA.

Naturally, Head Coach Ben Martin is the spokesman for the Falcons grid fortunes — and if his team could play as well as the coach turns a phrase it would go undefeated every year. Martin enlightened the combined meeting of the Colorado Springs Quarterback Club and the Falcon Sports Club Monday, giving away no secrets but still leaving the door open for improvement.

Last year the Falcons were caught with only a "mild" passing threat and teams ganged their defense to stop sustained drives. It's pretty obvious that the Air Force won't be able to smash anyone with sheer power (since admittedly weak in experienced depth) so they'll have to devise a way of going around or over the opponents rather than running against superior manpower.

Look for the Falcons to have more power running at halfback, too. And this could be a big clue to the "new look" if Isaacson proves adept on the option. Martin has moved senior Nick Arnkoff, a daylight runner at full back last year, to Isaacson's right half position, and he'll have 195-pounders in sophomores Billy Bo Pepper and Dick Cernota at the flanker backs.

In addition, the first local product to make the football varsity at the AFA, St. Mary's John Conley, has been switched from guard to tackle. "He weighs about 220 now," said Martin, "and he's passed the guard stage." With Conley, the Falcons will be two-deep in 220-pound tackles with Gil Achter and Jim Lang having the experience and Dave Kremer another in this class up from the Frosh squad.

So, how about that schedule that includes five bowl teams? At first glance it looks like the toughest yet in a series of schedules that get tougher with every year. But it should be remembered that most bowl teams are also senior teams.

For instance: Colorado (Orange Bowl) has not only been depleted by graduation but also trimmed by a pending NCAA restriction that undoubtedly will see several lettermen try another way of making a fast buck.

UCLA (Rose Bowl) was primarily a senior team and will be faced with replacing many of its stars — in addition to making a shift in style from the single-wing.

Baylor (Gotham Bowl) will have to find replacements for three-fourths of its "Dream Backfield" plus much of the depth in the line.

Penn State (Gator Bowl) will be without star quarterback Gaten Hall and seven other members of the first two units.

Miami (Gator Bowl) builds around George Mira, but will be without All-America end Bill Miller and several other key performers.

That leaves the opener with Colorado State University (winless last year), Southern Methodist (which the AFA outplayed altho losing), Arizona (on the upswing), Oregon (in a home tangle), and already traditional regional rival Wyoming.

What this spells is a schedule that the Falcons could either sweep or lose 'em all. The games look that close. And while it could mean sleepless nights for Martin . . . it's an exciting season upcoming for Falcon fans.

By THOMAS HARVEY. DENVER (UPI)—Eddie Bohn, Colorado boxing commissioner and former pugilist, plans to ask the National Boxing Association to change two boxing rules because of the death of Benny (Kid) Paret.

Bohn said he would press for the changes at the NBA meeting in Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 20. Bohn said Colorado's delegation would propose that whenever a boxer's arm becomes entangled in the ropes, or a portion of his body is hanging outside the ring, his opponent must back away.

Bohn has been in the fight game for 41 years as a fighter, promoter and official, said both situations arose when Paret fought Emile Griffith March 14 and was fatally injured. Bohn said Paret's arm was entangled in the ropes and at one time his head lay over them, almost touching the corner post. Under these conditions, Bohn said, injury was almost certain.

Bohn neither blamed nor absolved Referee Ruby Goldstein. He said that the fatal flurry took place so quickly that nothing could have prevented Paret's fatal injury. "It was only a matter of a couple of steps for Goldstein, but no man could have taken those steps in time," Bohn said.

Bohn, a Denver businessman, said he did not think the fight game should be stopped because of the Paret incident. "Any fighter who enters the ring must be properly trained," Bohn said. "It takes three months of training to go four rounds. Carroll Maynard, 617, and partner Manny Barros, 570, and fighter should be trained both offensively and defensively. 'Palmer Era' Arrives After Arnie Routs Field in Masters Playoffs

By MERCER BAILEY. AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Golf is in defeat. Twice in two days, en route to his third Masters golf championship, Palmer was ahead by one shot. Palmer collected two more birdies on the next two holes and it was just a question of how big his victory margin would be. Palmer wound up with a 4-Ford $298,037 and Middlecoff $285,232 although Arnold has been front nine, took a double bogey 4 on No. 10 and coming into 16, finished with a 77. Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Too Old for Games!

DEAR ABBY: My older sister, who is almost 18, and her boy friend, who is 18, rattle together in our living room sometimes. It embarrasses me. I wonder if you think it is all right. They have fun and he never really hurts her. I think they should not rattle like this. Am I being silly?

—KID SISTER
DEAR SISTER: No, you are being sensible. They are almost old enough for wedlock — time to quit the hammer lock.

DEAR ABBY: Charles and I have been married eleven years. His parents live in the same city and my husband is their only child. Don't get me wrong, Abby, they are nice people and we get along fine. But about three or four nights a week, and all day Sunday, they visit us. Charles goes out in the garage and works on his car or else he goes down in the basement to his workshop, and I am left to listen to them and talk to them. When I complain (in a nice way) Charles tells me that after a hard day's work he likes to "relax." I'd like to relax, too. But how?

—TRAPPED AND BORED
DEAR T. AND B. Collar Charles when he is good and "relaxed," and tell him you are resigning as head of the entertainment committee. If he can't help you keep his parents company, he should at least take turns. P. S. Don't you have a television set? It could solve your problem and "everybody" could relax.

DEAR ABBY: I work adjacent to a marriage bureau and see the couples applying for marriage licenses. Sometimes it makes me sad to see the youngsters who are marrying. The boy hangs back, shyly, and makes the girl do all the talking. They look so childish. I want to say, "Don't do it. Wait! You are only babies." Of course I don't dare. There are older couples in their middle twenties and early 30's. They know where they are going and what they are getting into. And in Jerusalem Monday with an ad when the older couples come in, dress by Premier David Ben-Gurion. They are so Guron.

Ultra-Conservatives Face 'Boycott' by Two Parties

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The er when he questioned the loyalty prospect that ultraconservatives of Secretary of State Dean Rusk will influence the course of the and others in testimony before a major political parties in this Senate Armed Services subcommittee congressional elections appears to be fading.

Leaders of both parties, in fact, are busy posting keep-away signs against zealous citizens who profess to feel that some of the nation's highest officials are endorsing the general's statements.

The signs apply also to those who are pre-qualified for the type of training they desire to enter in today's United States Army. The types range from the combat type arms thru technical training in the Electronic, Chemical or Nuclear weapons training according to the local recruiting office.

the politicians who heard him that the former general is not likely off against what he called the to become an effective spokesman for the far right.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., said he couldn't go along with Walker's charges. Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said they weren't supported by the record.

Sen. John M. Stennis, D-Miss., head of the Senate group, said he had Walker's testimony, said he has no intention of calling for an inquiry into the records of persons accused by the former general of being soft on communism.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he would vote with the Kennedy administration on just about everything but civil rights, said in an interview he wasn't worried by any right-wing threat to his party.

But Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., who votes with the Kennedy administration on just about everything but civil rights, said in an interview he wasn't worried by any right-wing threat to his party.

"The truth of the matter is," he said, "I don't think these people are going to have any real influence in either party."

Seniors May Select Type of Army Training

High school seniors may select and be pre-qualified for the type of training they desire to enter in today's United States Army. The types range from the combat type arms thru technical training in the Electronic, Chemical or Nuclear weapons training according to the local recruiting office.

The combat arms option provides for the selection of any of the following branches: Armor, Artillery, Infantry, Airborne (paratroopers) or Combat Engineers.

There is also the selection of an overseas area of duty with some of the above branches. The Airborne is a popular choice from the above as it provides for additional pay.

Another popular option today is the Army Air Defense command which permits the selection of a "Nike" missile site within the United States.

The sites are located near many of the larger cities and the enlistee has the choice of metropolitan area which he desires to be stationed at.

The technical training selection is available mainly thru the "Graduate Specialist program." This program permits high school seniors to select and be pre-qualified for the technical school of his or her choice even before graduation.

This assures them of a desk or bench waiting for them when they enlist in June. There are some of the latest and best courses available in the mechanical, administrative, medical or electronic fields and one can become first class technicians in a short time by taking advantage of this option.

For more complete information on these enlistment opportunities, students or parents are welcome to consult the local Army Recruiting Office, Room 220 Post Office.

The Italian "Blue Team" captured the World Bridge championship in New York for the fifth time in the last six years when they stayed off a late rally by the United States. The North American team had come from far behind to catch and defeat the English. Then they tried to duplicate their accomplishment in the final deals against the Italians, but they fell short and Italy emerged the victor by the narrow margin of 26 International match points.

A freak hand that contributed to an early lead for the United States is presented today. When Ron Von Der Porten and Lew Mathe were seated North and South, respectively, for the United States, D'Alleio of Italy opened the East hand with one spade. Mathe was not sure whose hand it was and, in an effort to disrupt his opponent's line of communications, he made the tactical call of four notrump. West interjected himself into the proceeding at this point by bidding five spades to lay the ground work for a sacrifice. Von Der Porten, holding defensive values to spare, doubled with the North hand and when it got back to Mathe, he felt constrained to bid six hearts. West was not certain what to do and he passed the decision back to his partner who elected to defend.

The play was routine. Mathe ruffed the opening spade leading year after drawing trump, being attended here by 100 parents cashed the king of clubs and so they can help their children crossed to dummy's ace of diamonds with their homework.

However, North's double of six spades closed the auction. The defenders collected a total of two club tricks and one heart to administer a 300 point set to the Americans. Since Mathe had scored 1,010 points for his heart slam at the other table, the net swing to our forces was 710 points or 13 International match points.

monds to discard his remaining loser on the high club.

At the other table, Mervin Key of the United States opened the East hand with one spade, and Forquet of Italy, seated South, jumped to five hearts. Bobby Nail, West, saved at five spades but, unlike his Italian counterpart, he did not pass the next decision around to his partner. North doubled five spades and South ran out to six hearts. Nail now bid six spades, and later announced that he would have persisted to seven spades if South had bid once more.

However, North's double of six spades closed the auction. The defenders collected a total of two club tricks and one heart to administer a 300 point set to the Americans. Since Mathe had scored 1,010 points for his heart slam at the other table, the net swing to our forces was 710 points or 13 International match points.

WHEN THEY SAY "NEW SIZE" They really mean Rambler size!

There's a lot of chest-thumping by some 1962 cars which claim to be "new size." Fact is, six years ago, we brought out a new size car—a big-room, high-performance Rambler. Newest version is today's Rambler Classic—which Chevy II and Fairlane have tried to copy. In outside dimensions they come fairly close. In room and performance, they fall short. Rambler Classic is still the only car with the BEST OF BOTH: big-car room and performance; compact-car price, economy, handling ease.

MOST TORQUE (Passing Power)	YES	NO	NO

Rambler Classic Six "400" 4-Door Sedan

They can copy the size, but they can't match Rambler's customer benefits!

Rambler's "new size" idea has made it one of America's top best sellers. In the past six months alone, Rambler has set a sales record above any corresponding period.

The soaring sales are due, in good measure, to the greater room and power Rambler has—compared to imitators. Rambler is the only car within hundreds of dollars of its low price that gives six big 6-footers full headroom, hip room and shoulder room.

Biggest reason for Rambler's best-selling success is unmatched excellence of design, quality, and its host of advanced features.

Just compare and see.

Rambler's Double-Safety Brake System provides separate braking front and rear

(only Cadillac, no other U.S. car, has a similar system). It's standard on 1962 Ramblers—as are self-adjusting brakes.

Rustproofing. Rambler spills more than others use—literally—in the exclusive Deep-Dip bath where each body is immersed up to the roof in rustproofing primer paint.

Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe. We'll pay the cost if either rusts out, for original owner—collision damage excepted. Just go to a Rambler dealer for free replacement. No time limit.

Interiors are the most comfortable of any car, with comfort options like Airliner Reclining Seats, Reclining Bucket Seats, Adjustable Headrests, Lounge-Tilt Seat.

Full-size wheels and tires are standard on Rambler—instead of small 13" foreign-car size on Rambler's imitators.

These are just a few examples of the great lengths Rambler goes to—to bring you a better built, longer lasting, safer, more useful automobile—at a lower price.
